LOCAL BREVES.

(1) Pure and mellow! Century Whiskey!

P. C. Cameron, Esq., of Hillsboro, was in the city yesterday.

The new Board of City Commissioners meet this evening to qualify.

It takes thirty years to grow a shade tree. Do not cut it down wantonly.

The law card of Messrs. R. C. Badger and T. P. Devereux, Solicitors in Bankruptcy appears in this issue.

The Pony penning at Shackleford Banks take place on the 10th instant. Many of our citizens will attend.

The morals of this city continue in a healthy condition. No items can be picked up at the Police Court nowadays.

Rev. R. H. Whitaker left last evening to attend the meeting of the State Council, Friends of Temperance at Statesville.

The Board of County Commissioners meet in this city Saturday, when it is expected the settlement with the Sheriff will be completed.

The system of lectures inaugurated at the Peace Institute, is eminently wise and should be sustained—indeed, we think, could be imitated by all similar colleges with success.

Yesterday a steer, drawing a small load of wood, fell in Hargett street from sheer starvation. The poor animal was a horrible sight to behold. We should have a Bergh operating in our midst.

Prof. W. J. Palmer, of Belleville, Canada, left this city yesterday for Hartford, Conn., to attend a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association of Principals of Deaf and Dumb Institutions.

The man who took off our copy of the Southern Home without our knowledge, authority or consent, forced us to borrow from our neighbors. Please don't take away our exchanges in this manner.

Two of the boxes of laws of the session of the last General Assembly have been found in Edenton. It will be remembered that H. J. Menninger, the late Secretary of State, was sued because several counties were left unsupplied.

See the advertisement of valuable town property in Clayton, Johnston county for sale by W. W. Cox. This is a good opportunity to invest in valuable real estate. Persons wishing to make a good investment, would do well to give the advertisement a careful reading.

There is some talk we learn of establishing a cotton factory on the property owned by the Hon. D. M. Barringer, in the Southern portion of the city, near the grove of Mr. Bledsoe, and upon the upper part of which Mr. Tupper has lately erected such a handsome college. We would hail the event with pleasure.

We stated, yesterday, that Col. Jno. R. Harrison was spoken of as the successor to Maj. Badger. We have since heard the names of four other men mentioned in connection for the House, to-wit: Quent Busbee, T. M. Argo, R. T. Boshier and Mr. Gilbert; and by the time for the meeting of the Radical nominating Convention we think there will be six Richmonds in the field.

THANKS.—We tender our thanks for an invitation to attend the Commencement party, complimentary to the graduating class of Trinity College, on Thursday evening, June 12th. The following gentlemen are the managers: C. T. Bethell, R. H. Hall, W. R. Ogle, J. O. Holmes, W. G. Burkhead, B. H. Palmer, J. J. Desmond, W. F. Norman and W. T. Sanders.

THINK ABOUT IT.—There is much

truth in the study of physiognomy, and a man who has a varied acquaintance, who is sufficiently enlightened and yet shrewd, may turn it to profit. But there is still more in the study of deportment, or as it is termed in slang, in "style." Indeed a man's deportment is the fairest index to his character, exhibiting the amount of refinement to which he has attained, as well as showing the original defects of his nature. The free and easy style is most common in this country, and is often cultivated to excess, so much as to shock and disgust. A reasonable amount of the article is always pleasant, but as it is a style which pervades all ranks of society, and is so often simulated to entice the unwary into confidence and crime, we say beware of it in a stranger and oft times in a friend. Indeed, unless the person has been tried, with free and easy manners he may lead you to rely on friendship, and when the pinch comes, lo and behold, he steps from under and down you come with a bang. Then there is the extra courteous manner, which is as often repellent as attractive. Look on its wearer with suspicion likewise, until you know him at the bottom. But the gentleman—well he wears like gold dollar, and may be trusted—like a dog, others, if you know him, but we had rather take him on trust than lose him at any time. So much for the male community.

Now as to the feminine portion, the first and most brazen style marks its possessor at once, with virtue lost and honor dead. And its imitator, the "fast style," just between the fashionable and the blase, is always open to suspicion. With flowing ribbons and painted faces, it attracts attention with temptation. So none of that for us. And then there is the fashionable 'style' at church and opera, on drive and promenade. How beautiful and artistic, yet how false and alas, so cold. Compared with the last, the domestic deportment, into which, thank God, with few exceptions, it is always destined to merge, it marks an era of frivolity we believe and only nothing more. This last manner is woman's crowning crown, whether in matron or maid. It speaks of days well-spent, of ideas trained to the sweetest, purest attainment of art in dress, in person and in mind. The wanderer always notes it, and involuntarily thinks of home. It is the light of the fireside after all the Christmas fireside of the old times.

And thus we muse and muse. Let us think about it, and looking on and seeing therefore who bear these relations in life to us, follow them in training our general deportment to the high standard of the gentleman at home and abroad, and the lady whose loveliness seems to be so truly a reflection from Heaven.

MEMORIAL DAY.—On Saturday, the 10th inst., the ladies of the Memorial Association of this city will pay their annual tribute to the memories of their fallen countrymen. Arrangements have been perfected to celebrate the day with appropriate ceremonies. As we have heretofore announced, Col. W. F. Green, of Franklin county, delivers the annual address; Mr. Herbert Bragg, of this city, will officiate as Chief Marshal, with Messrs. W. H. Bledsoe and Alex. B. Stronach as Assistant Marshals.

The various organizations designing to participate on the occasion, will assemble at the south front of the capitol at 4 p. m., when the procession will be formed in the following order:

The Marshals.
Raleigh Hook and Ladder Company No. 1.
Rescue Steam Fire Engine Company.
Orator.

Officers and Members of the Association and Citizens with Floral Decorations.

The procession will then move to the cemetery by the following route: Along Morran to Salisbury street, up Salisbury to Edenton street, down Edenton to Jones street, along Jones to Linden Avenue, up the Avenue to North street, up North to Cemetery street and thence to the Cemetery.

The ORDER OF EXERCISES have been arranged as follows:

Ode.
Prayer.
Oration.
Ode.
Benediction.
Decoration of the Graves.

THE METHODIST PIC-NIC at KIRKLANDS.—The excursion promises to be a grand affair. We learn that all the arrangements are completed. The Chief Marshal, R. W. Bett, Esq., has appointed Messrs. A. M. Powell and Frank H. Lumsden his immediate assistants, and Messrs. J. A. Jones, L. N. Keith, W. M. Brown, Matthew Moore, A. S. Lee, C. G. Latta, S. J. Fall, D. S. Waitt, W. A. Gattis, T. N. Ramsay, E. B. Thomas, Willie Wilson, J. C. R. Little and J. S. Wynne, who will be in charge of the coaches, to preserve order, &c.

We also learn that no person will be allowed, under any circumstances, to carry any spirituous liquors on the train, and any persons found thereon intoxicated will be put off.

Messrs. J. C. S. Lumsden, Lewis Peck and Andrew Jones will have charge of the dinner. The Cornet Band will be in attendance. We wish them a happy time.

APPOINTED COMMISSIONER.—On the recommendation of Senator W. W. Flemming, of McDowell county, Gov. Caldwell has appointed, Geo. W. Thurlow Commissioner of Deeds for North Carolina resident in Philadelphia.

HURRAH FOR THE WETS.—There was a good deal of excitement at the recent municipal election in Concord, over the "wet" and "dry" tickets. The "wets" carried it by a small majority. Bully for the "wets!"

Our local Chief, Woodson, is at Hillsboro, attending the Orange county Superior Court. We hope to hear a good account of him.

BACOCK FIRE EXTINGUISHER.—The

exhibition made Monday evening in front of the Court-house, by Major J. H. Lacy, of Fredericksburg, Va., of the Portable Self-acting Bacock Fire Extinguisher, was successful in an eminent degree. We have already urged upon our city authorities the propriety of increasing the efficiency of our Fire Department by the purchase of six of these Extinguishers for our Hook and Ladder Company and four for the Buckett Company.

The machine is simple, durable and wonderfully effective. Sulphuric acid and soda water are the agents used to generate instantaneously carbonic acid gas. The copper cylinder holds six gallons of water in which the soda is deposited. The acid is held in a glass bottle suspended in the carbonated water. The Extinguisher will remain charged for an indefinite period, and you only, in the case of fire, have to pull up the handle, shake the machine, and it will throw the water, impregnated with gas, forty feet, and put out any incipient fire.

The price of the machines is $60, with six charges. Major Lacy, the General Agent for Virginia, North and South Carolina, is at the Yarroworth House and is ready to fill orders.

We examined with much interest the pamphlet explaining the Bacock Fire Engines for cities and towns, operating on the same principle as the portables, which we have mentioned above, whose efficiency is only limited by its capacity. In the engines you have two copper tanks holding each 200 gallons. They are fixed upon light carriages, and are warranted to throw a stream three hundred feet perpendicular, through the hose. These fire engines are highly endorsed by 35 Fire Departments, and are used in about fifty cities and towns in the United States, and even in cities having an abundant supply of water they are preferred for their promptness, efficiency and from the fact that they do not damage goods like water. A couple of engines of this description would be invaluable. It is claimed that water impregnated with carbonic acid gas has thirty times the efficiency in extinguishing fire than ordinary water, from the fact that the carbonic acid gas is heavier than the atmosphere, and at once cuts off the oxygen which alone supports the combustion. It is well known that a flame will die out in 5 per cent of carbonic acid gas.

The General Agent, Major Lacy, is a well known Virginia gentleman and served on the staff of Gen. Early, and his connection with this business is a guarantee of its merit.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnson is the agent for the sale of these machines at Savannah, Georgia.

OUR LOGAN.—It should be remembered that Miss Olive Logan gives her fascinating lecture on the attractive and interesting topic of "Girls" at Tucker Hall on Thursday evening to be followed the next evening, by a discourse on the subject of the "Passions." As public curiosity is aroused in regard to Miss Logan, who is eliciting words of the warmest commendation from the press of Richmond and other places she has visited, we give the following sketch of the prominent facts connected with her history:

She is a daughter of C. Logan, a comedian of ability and note, and sister of Eliza Logan, one of the finest actresses of America. She was born in the State of New York in 1841, and is now in her 33rd year. She had the advantages of a happy, virtuous and cultivated home, and is the graduate, with the highest honors, of an English female college, with fluency and correctness. In August, 1854, she made her debut on the stage in Philadelphia at the Arch Street Theatre, but retired temporarily from the profession in 1857, when she went to France. In 1859 she was presented at the Court of the Tuilleries, and received marked attentions from the Empress Eugenie. While abroad she wrote for the press of both France and England, and published several works of fiction, thus establishing her literary reputation. "Chateau Frisette" and "Photographs of Paris Life" were issued in London in 1860, and achieved great success. She returned to the stage in August, 1864, appearing in New York at Wallack's Theatre, in a play of her own composition, "Evelene." She won great applause as an actress, but becoming dissatisfied with the life, she finally renounced the stage in 1868, and became a public lecturer. She is married, her husband being Mr. Wirt Sikes, well and favorably known as a writer. Olive Logan is author of the following works: "Chateau Frisette," or Home Scenes in France; "Photographs of Paris Life"; "Politics, Art and Fashion in the French Capital"; "Before the Foot-Lights and Behind the Scenes"; "The Mimic World and Public Exhibitions, their History, Morals and Effects"; "Propos of Woman and Theatres"; "Get Them Behind Me, Satan"; "A Home-Born Book of Home Truths"; and the following Christmas stories: "John Morris's Money"; "Somebody's Stocking"; and "The Good Mr. Bagglethorpe."

MISS JEANIE PATTERSON.—The Washington National Republican has this kind word to say of the charming Miss Jeanie Patterson: "The Trinity Church mite society met last evening at the residence of Mr. O. H. Morrison, Third street northwest. The entertainment was varied, the chief feature being the reading of the beautiful and gifted young reader, Miss Jeanie Patterson. The 'Legend of Bregenz' was read with great pathos and power. Her Caudle Lecture was perfectly inimitable, and brought down the house, while many bachelors present declared their willingness to submit to perpetual lectures from lips so fair. Miss Patterson will next week read publicly in our city, and we predict a full house."

Our local Chief, Woodson, is at Hillsboro, attending the Orange county Superior Court. We hope to hear a good account of him.

MASSUM LODGE.—On Monday evening Theo. N. Ramsay, Esq., of this city, organized a lodge of Good Templars at Haywood, Chatham county, with twenty charter members. The lodge is named after that worthy and christian gentleman, Rev. A. W. Mangum, pastor of the Edenton street M. E. Church in this city.

Stanford, the owner of the horse Occident, which was made famous from having been beaten in a race with the Goldsmith Maid, desired to have a photograph of the animal taken while said animal was going at full speed. Mr. Maybridge, the artist, was applied to, but he expressed his doubts that it could be done. He began experimenting, however, and after awhile was able to catch objects on the wing with great success. A few days ago he announced to the owner of Occident that he believed he could take the picture. He procured all the stable sheets to be had in the stable, and with these made a reflecting back ground. Over this Occident was trained to trot, and everything was in readiness for the trial. The great difficulty was to train an impression while the horse was moving at the rate of thirty-eight feet to the second. The first experiment of opening and closing the camera on the first day left no result. The second day, with increased velocity in opening and closing, a shadow was caught. On the third day the artist, having studied the matter thoroughly, contrived to have two bands slip past each other by touching a spring, and in so doing to leave an eighth of an inch opening for the five hundredth part of a second, as the horse passed, and by an arrangement of double lenses, crossed, secured a negative that shows Occident in full motion—a perfect likeness of the horse. The space of time was so small that the spokes of the wheels of the sulky were caught as if they were not in motion. This is probably the most wonderful success in photographing ever yet achieved, and the artist is as proud of his discovery as the Governor is of the picture taken.

A Rhode Island enthusiast at an auction bought a lot of furniture and then asked the crowd to name "the poorest woman in town." The name was given, and the goods were sent to her.

The New York detectives are convinced that Goodrich committed suicide.

How Abraham Lincoln was Nominated for President.

The wigwag in which the convention was held was an immense structure, capable of accommodating thousands of persons besides the delegates, but the crowds assembled at Chicago were so great that only a small part of those who desired to be present could gain admittance to the hall. Seeing this, the Seward men contrived a shrewd trick for the purpose of giving the friends of Mr. Seward the possession of the hall, so that all manifestations of popular enthusiasm should be on the side of their favorite; and it was decided that no spectators should be allowed to enter without tickets issued from Mr. Morgan's headquarters and distributed by the delegates. In giving out these tickets the Seward delegates were favored to the prejudice of Western men, and the Lincoln men saw that if something was not done to counteract the movement the wigwag would be packed with Seward's friends. A council war was held, at which it was resolved that counterfeit tickets of admission should be prepared the evening before the nomination, and when the wigwag doors were opened the next morning the holders of these tickets swarmed into the hall and crowded all the available space, to the exclusion of most of the Seward men, who had taken a leisurely breakfast in the period of confidence that their genuine tickets secured them reserved seats. The result of this was soon manifest. When Lincoln was put in nomination, and C. B. Smith, of Indiana, rose to second it, a storm of applause arose from all sides of the hall, while the nomination of Seward failed to evoke the enthusiasm anticipated and arranged for by his friends. The Seward delegates were enjoying the benefit of their reserved seats upon the sidewalks, while the Lincoln men filled the wigwag with their shouts. Doubtful and wavering delegates could not withstand the tidal wave of the rail-splitter's popularity, and were carried away, while the Seward managers gazed in stupid amazement upon the unexpected denouement. Such is the story as it is told by those who make no secret of having been in the plot by which Mr. Morgan's shrewd designs were circumvented.—St. Louis Republic.

Sam Long, the well known clown attached to Forepaugh's circus, tells the following readable story of Henry Clay: "I remember once we entered Lexington in procession, and it just happened that Henry Clay was driving in at the same time. I brought up the rear of the procession, riding a mule. As he was directly behind me, I turned my head to the ass' tail, and sung out, 'Here we are fellow citizens, Wisdom led by Folly.' The people laughed and shouted, and old Harry seemed greatly amused. The next day at the circus I made him a speech, in which I advised him to be President of the United States, and take me in his Cabinet. That night he sent me a bottle of the finest wine I ever tasted, with his compliments, saying, 'From the poorest fool to the best clown in the United States.' Ah! sir, there was a great man for you."

The Italian gentleman who recently swallowed a fork has found a dangerous rival in a French lady who has been long accustomed to seek nourishment in needles. The most remarkable feature in the case was, not that the needles did her any harm, but that she seemed to thrive upon them. What became of them all was, not unnaturally, a constant theme of wonder in the circle of her acquaintances. The mystery has just been solved by a post mortem examination made in the amphitheatre of L'Ecole de Medecine at Paris. The needles were all found embedded in the flesh near the old lady's back bone, ranged in neat order, as if in a pin-cushion.

Prevailing style of a Texas news paragraph: "Murdered.—By the Kiowa Indians from Mexico, at the rancho of Mr. Martin, in Webb county, thirty miles north of Laredo, on the evening of the 7th inst., Guadalupe Fissardo and Carlos Garza; also, on the morning of the 8th inst., by the same parties, Felipe Gonzales, at the rancho of Capt. Callaghan, in this county."

TRIVILING WITH A NOBLE RED MAN.—A Kansas district school was recently visited and addressed by Messrs. Bigmouth, Powder Face, and Spotted Wolf—all the noblest kind of noble red men. A mischievous school boy placed a pin where Big Mouth sat down, and that chieftain was observed to rise hastily and remark: "Ugh! too much flea bite. Me no stay to hear class in analytical geology."

The Macoupin (Illinois) Inquirer says that a Green county lady, who is worth $30,000, recently refused to marry a clergyman because she thought she was unfit to be the wife of a minister. He then abandoned his sacred calling and proposed again. The second time she was too good to marry a man who would throw away his clerical robes to win a woman's hand.

A young woman in Cumberland, England, lately threw herself in front of a railway train and was killed. Her conduct was attributed to a love quarrel. Two weeks later her sister followed her example and was killed in the same way.

Mr. Hatch, member of the Massachusetts legislature, considered it necessary to get up in the church, and deny he has been bribed, or had sold his vote as a member.

Always shut your bed-room door before retiring. You may have to get up in the night, and closing a door with your nose is one of the lost arts.—Danbury News.

SELECTED POETRY

(Written for the Enquirer. STARR BY THE SEA.

BY CLYDE.

"In the starlight, in the starlight,"
We swore undying love,
When none was near to hear us
But twinkling stars above.
In the soft, gray night of Summer
You fondly gazed on me;
In the starlight, in the starlight,
When we sat beside the sea.

In this, another starlight,
I recall that time so dear,
When the low, deep moan of ocean wave
Came unheeded to my ear,
And I saw alone reflected stars
And white crests o'er the waters glide—
In that starlight, in that starlight,
When you were by my side.

In that starlight, distant starlight,
We spoke in love's low tone,
But we were doomed to part at last,
When we were not alone.
And there were eyes, not twinkling stars,
That tried to guess our pain,
In that starlight, in that starlight,
I live it over again.

I remember in this starlight,
That parting on the strand,
When we said good-by, as dangers do
With earnestly clasped hand.
In the mountains, I recall those sighs
Heard above the breaking rain,
In the starlight, in the starlight,
We meet, ah! never more.

In this starlight, saddest starlight,
I am sadly weeping now,
They tell me that the "curse of Cain"
Is on your noble brow.
And, oh, whither art thou wandering?
Where live you now, and how?
In the starlight, in the starlight,
I am weeping—where art thou?

An Extraordinary Career—Attempted suicide of a French Marquis at Chicago.

A Chicago letter says: "This afternoon a well-known grain broker attempted to put a sensational end to a checked life. This was M. Charles de Belloy, who claims the title (to which he is indeed entitled) of Marquis de Belloy. Originally heir to an estate of nearly 2,000,000 francs, he contrived to dissipate three-fourths of his fortune in Paris and Europe. With a remainder (something less than $100,000) he came to America, accompanying a well-to-do and fashionable New York family, whose acquaintance he had made in Paris, to his city. There his $100,000 was soon diminished by four-fifths, and he went on to Utica, whence, after a brief stay, he removed to Michigan. He spent one winter in the backwoods hunting and fishing, varying the monotony of forest life by making love to a handsome and cultured lady of Detroit. Thence he came to Chicago, found the excitement he craved, and was in grain speculation, and was soon satisfactorily bankrupt.

"At this juncture the death of a relative brought him into a fortune of $80,000, and for awhile de Belloy was himself again, till 'No. 2 spring' swallowed up almost every dollar of the windfall. With the remnant he returned to Michigan, wooed and wedded his sweetheart, and set up a country grocery. This kept him occupied for six years, during which time four children were born to him. Then he became bankrupt again, and taught music and lectured on spiritualism for awhile, till he fell into a third fortune of some $50,000, which went in grain speculations like the others. Reduced again to ebb-tide he engaged with Mr. N. K. Fairbank as a day laborer at $10.50 a week. Mr. Fairbank had met him years before in Utica, and knowing him to be as honorable as any nobleman was in a play, set him up as a broker with $4,000. This went in the great wheat corner of last August. Since then M. de Belloy has been living on scanty remittances from France, and seemed to have lost all heart and hope. Early this week he offered to bet $50 that he would be dead before May day, and the same evening drew a pistol at Wolford's restaurant, and shot himself, but was prevented from accomplishing his purpose. This evening, in company with two friends, he entered a lager-beer saloon, sat down at a table, ordered some beer, then rose suddenly and drawing a small revolver from his pocket placed the muzzle against his forehead and fired. He fell to the floor, then rose, walked (his face covered with blood) to the counter, where he shook hands with the proprietor and apologized for the inconvenience he had caused, then fell, and was carried home. The first impression was that the bullet was in the brain and that the wound would necessarily result fatally, but later advice as to the effect that the ball glanced and lodged near the left temple, so that the hurt is only a serious one."

The Musquakoe Indians have a curious way of punishing murderers. They starve them to death. A few weeks ago one of them murdered one of his tribe near Des Moines, Iowa, and he was decided that he should be punished by being starved to death. The sentence was carried out to the cruel letter. The Indian was tied to a log in the woods, and several Indians were detailed to carry the sentence into effect, which took eight days. Other cruelties, known only to the Indians themselves, were added to the torture of starvation.

This is strictly a

HOME LIFE COMPANY.

Its Officers and Directors are citizens of the State, of high character for business capacity, enterprise and probity. It offers every that Northern Companies do, with the great additional consideration that the capital is kept within the State, and, therefore, helps to build up and foster Home Institutions.

SUBSTANTIAL BENEFIT

Another important fact to be considered is, that the Wilmington Life has thus far obtained a VERY MUCH LARGER INTEREST for the money invested at home, than any of the New York Companies receive for their investments, according to their sworn statements before the Commissioner of that State.

These unquestionable facts should commend this Company, above all others, to our people. Let it be born in mind that millions of dollars need for Life Insurance have been sent North since the war, which at once drains the South and enriches the Northern capitalists of the North. If there was no other consideration, safety, fairness and cheapness being equal, why North Carolina Insurers at HOME, there were more than sufficient.

THE WILMINGTON LIFE

Its motto is:

"ECONOMY, PROMPTNESS, FAIRNESS."
